

All hail, SUBSCRIPTION! 'tis to thee we owe
The plenteous fruits, which from invention grow.

[William Woty 1770]

A thematic gathering of uncollected poems, prose & incidental notes 2009 – 2021

Designed & published by Glenn Storhaug at Five Seasons Press, collaborator since 1979
on thirteen previous publications involving the author/artist.

128 page section-sewn paperback 130 × 216mm.

Publication price: £14.00 plus postage / $24.00 plus postage

Pre-publication subscription price:

UK £12.00 post free

USA $19.00 plus postage

Subscribers will be named in the book unless they request anonymity.

[All those wishing to contribute significantly beyond the pre-publication cost towards the future of Five Seasons Press will be gratefully listed as benefactors.]

UK subscribers: please send cheque or pay via BACS [30-94-14 00427242] to Five Seasons Press

or request PayPal invoice

US subscribers: please request PayPal invoice

Rest of world: please request subscription cost in your currency

Five Seasons Press

41 Green Street Hereford HR1 2QH UK

books@fiveseasonspress.com

+44 (0)1432 261100

+44 (0)7425 069815

‘The range is beyond belief, so good as to be chameleonic, super-histrionic, shape-shifting, but with always a fully wry energy in the inhabiting of past times, a sideways mockery allied with a very serious intentness of political purpose. This is poetry brimming with intellectual fire, variousness of wit, sardonic dark Romantic bookishness alive and vibrant, huge in scope, tricky and intricate in its probing of language, poetry, art, the graphemes and phonemes of the fluid imagination flowing with cool electric passion.’

Adam Piette, Black Box Manifold

Marginalien (2005) was the last Halsey title from Five Seasons Press to be subsidized by West Midlands Arts. After the dismantling of the West Midlands Arts enthusiastic Literature Panel, Five Seasons has looked elsewhere for funding. The 2009 publication of Halsey’s Lives of the Poets was supported by subscribers and we are now seeking subscriptions to this new collection.